CUNNINGHAM'S CASE CALLED IN THE SUPREME COURT

The Rejected Bonds of the Macon and Brunswic Railroad Made the Basis of a Suit in the United States Supreme Cour:— The Merits of the Case, Etc.

Washington, November 2.-Argument began in the U.S. supreme court to day in the railroad bond case of G. A. Cunningham, appellant against the Macon and Brunswick railroad company and the governor and other state officers of Georgia. This is a suit upon a series of bonds of the Macon and Bruns wick railroad company, amounting in the aggregate to $600,000, authorized by the act of October 27, 1870, and indersed by the goveruor of the state. In 1873 the company failed, and Governor Smith, in order to secure the interest of the state, created by its indorsement of these and other similar bonds, sold road in 1875. The state, by act of the legislature, repudiated as unconstitutional its indorsement on $600,-000 of the bonds herein controversy, and directed the governor to sell the road and use the proceeds in the payment of another series of bonds, also indorsed by the state, issued at an early period. The present suit is brought by one of the holders on $600,000 of bonds, to test the question of the liability of the state and to obtain equitable relief. The bill was dismissed in the court below mainly on the ground that it was virtually a suit against the state, and the state was not and could not be

The Grand Jury Finds True Bills Against a Number of Prominent Citizens.

Sr. Louis, November 2.—The grand jury made its final report to-day, and returned indictments against Joseph H. McIntire, state coal oil inspector; E. Butler, a leading democratic politician; and David W. Carnth, and Dr. Frank J. Lutz, police commissioners. The indictments allege that these parties conspired and combined to obstruct the administration of the law withreference to gambling, lotteries and like enterprises, and to dictate and control the police appointments with a view to carrying their schemes, political and other-wise. They are charged further with attempting to induce ex-Chief of Police John W. Caghbell, not to interfere with gambling, lotteries, etc., and acting in this did remove him without cause from office. The report of the grand jury is very scathing in language. It asserts that a combination of notorious persons asserts that a combination of notorious persons existed for the purpose of obstructing the laws with regard to gambling; censures the governo for granting pardons, especially to convicted gamblers, and recommends the withdrawal of the pardoning power from the governor, and the appointment of a state board of pardons. It further recommends that the power of appointing the board of police commissioners be withdrawn from the governor, and that they be appointed either by the mayor or they be appointed either by the mayor or circuit judges. It also severely censures the use of blank resignations by the gover-nor. Among the other indictments are the

Pennsylvania Congressman Und r the Red-Two Editors Mashed By Angry People Who They Had Been Writing About

READING Penn. November 2 .- A sensation was created here when Congressman Ermentrout was beaten on the public street by Geo. Smith, Jr., of Birdsborough, a prominent democratic politician. It seems that the name of Hiram H. Schwartze, the democratic candidate for judge of the orphans' court, was printed on the count ticket instead of being put separate as judiciary. Smith accused Ermentrout of having had this done purposely, to accomplish the de feat of Schwartze. High words ensued between the two, when James N. Ermentrout, a brother of the congressman, struck Smith a blow in the face, drawing blood. Smith then attacked Ermentrout, when Sheriff Gebret, who was one of the witnesses to the affair, separated the two beligerents. Shortly there-after the parties again met on the courthouse steps, when Smith struck Congressman Er-mentrout, knocking him down, when he was also kicked by one of the crowd. Ermentrout's face shows visible signs of the encounter. The whole affair, it seems, was indirectly brought about through certain letters on Berks county politics, which have appeared from time to time in the Philadelmatter in political circles.

The Story of Lynch's Liason and Death—The Faithless Wife's Conduct.

BATAVIA, N. Y., November 2.—The excitement over the terrible tragedy is intense, and nothing else is talked about. Johnson Lynch, a well known lawyer of Utica was the victim,
and his slayer is E. N. Rowell, of this city.
Lynch was infatuated with Rowell's young and beautiful wife, and although frequently warned that the boldness of his visits would

They were formerly neighbors in Utica, Mr. Rowell removing to Batavia ten years ago, where he is a member of the firm of Palmer & Rowell paper box manufacturers, who formerly transacted business in Utica. Lynch and Mrs. Rowell had tea together in sthe dining room, the wife supposing her husband away on a business trip. As soon as the tragedy became known on the streets a vast crowd flocked to the house. Those who heard the shots and arrived early met a shocking sight. Upon crossing the threshold Lynch lay dead on the carpet at the foot of the stairs. He was in his shirt-sleeves, and was divested of hat and shoes. His feet were toward the street door and his head reclined in a pool of blood. Rowell, his murderer stood calmly at the side of his victim.

"YOU WILL HAVE TO BE HUNG."
"What is the matter?" asked a neighbor. "I found this man in my house, and I shot m," answered Rowell "He betrayed my him," answered Rowell "He be wife and I caught him in the act." Mrs. Rowell was pacing up and down the stairs sobbing violently, and wringing her

Coroner Lozier soon arrived, being followed by Under Sheriff Southworth and Officer Robson. By this time Rowell had gone up strirs and was conversing with his wife. The second ball was buried in the pillow. Lynch started up quickly and ran out of the room and down stairs. Rowell followed and fired two more shots, one striking Lynch in the back, penetrating through the lower edge of the penetrating through the lower edge of the right shoulder blade behind and passing diag-onally through the body, severing the aorta at the base of the heart and lodging in the muscles of the left chest. I was out this morning and had taken some ladies to the cemetery, when a colored man approached me and asked me if I had taken a dead baby to the cemetery the day before, and I told him yes. I saw when I got to the house with the woman another whom she claimed to have been her daughter, and when I asked her how old the child was she said two days. The child was dark colored. Mr. Clay, city sexton, was next called and stated that Tom Wright, one of his hands, was at the cemetery late yesterday and saw a man slip an object into the hearse house, and get away, quick. As he left he caught a glimpse of him

The house of the woman in Cherry alley was next visited, and a much startled woman came out and after a few moments said that the mother of the child was named Cheney Richards, and that the father of the child was Henry George. Her name was given as Louisa Thweat. She stated that she had been taken out by the hackman and had put the child into the house; and, also stated that she was given orders by a letter by Mr. Smith at the courthouse. Dr. Blackshear attended the courthouse. Dr. Blackshear attended the woman, and the authorities will investigate woman, and the authorities will investigate it thoroughly in the morning. Company with a Woman of the Town.
From the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.
Nkw York, November 1.—Charles H. Sams, of Savannah, died in the New York hospital this morning, with a bullet in his brain. Miss Jennie Mitchell, a woman of the town, is in a cell at the Thirteenth street station tonight, weeping bitterly, and moan-ing as if her heart would break. She is charged with the murder of the man lying suff and stark in an undertaking establishment. The story is as ancient as the nills. Four years ago Miss Mitchell was the youngest and lovilest of the demi monde in Savannah, Georgia, and then it was that she first met Charles H. Sams, an agent of the Florida line of steamers at that place. ecame secretly intimate and seemed devoted beach other. In June, 1882, Sams was made assistant In June, 1882, Sams was made assistant purser of the Savannah steamship Nacoo-chee, running to this port, and on his first trip brought Miss Michell. For a time she lived quietly in a flat, but becoming Jonely during the long absences of her lover, she entered a gilded palace, and began openly the life of sname that produced the tragedy of to-day. Four months ago she had some difference with Sams, and enanged her abode, going to another house, is qually tained, and going to another house equally tainted, and nad not seen Sams until he walked in last evening, accompanied by a southern friend, whom he introduced as "Leb Harris." whom he introduced as "Leb Harris."

The latter invited Alice Sinciair, another inmate of the house, to join Sains and Miss Nellie Mitchell in a little wine party. They first went to the theater, and about midnight took environment and midnight.

first went to the theater, and about midnight took supper and wine at an upper Broadway restaurant. Leaving there at 2 o'clock, the party wandered into an all-night shooting gallery at 484 Sixth avenue. Sams proposed a little shooting tournament and led off by firing half a dozen shots at a figure with a pipe in its mouth, succeeding in breaking the pipe at the sixth shot. Then he turned to Miss Mitchell and playfully remarked, "I'll bet you six dollars you can't do that."

Miss Mitchell said she would try if he would show her! how. The gallery attendant loaded a 32-caliber Ballard rifle and Sams handed it to Miss Mitchell. She was a little awkward in handling the piece, and Sams awkward in handling the piece, and Sams attempted to teach her. Just then the gun was discharged, and Sams dropped to the floor, with a bullet through his right temple. He became unconscious, and died six hours The two women were arrested, but Harris made his escape, and has not been seen since.

A partial hearing was had before the coroner, and the case continued until to-morrow. Miss Mitchell had a number of friends present, who offered bail, but it was relused. In he cell, to night, Miss Mitchell told her story.

"I had not seen Mr. Sams for many weeks, she said, "and was greatly surprised when he walked into the house last evening, accompanied by a friend. We went out to supper making a little party of four. It was at his making a little party of four. It was at his suggestion that we went into the shooting gallery, when the rifle was discharged white in my hands, and he fell to the floor. I thought he was fooling. I noticed that his head struck a cuspadore heavily, and I began to realize that something serious had probably occurred. A second later I saw a spot of blood on his collar, and I was crazed with fright. God knows I had no intention of shooting my best friend."

while telling her story the woman sobbed hysterically, and swayed to and fro in her seat. Alice Sinclair corroborated Miss Mitchell's statement.

Mrs Sams, mother of the dead man, has been visiting friends here for several weeks. When she gazed on the dead face of her boy to-day there was an awful scene. For a moment she seemed dazed. Then her heart-broken cries rang out, startling the neighborgood and attracting a large crowd. Even the stolid undertaker broke down and joined in the grief of the mother. The body will be embalmed, and sent to Savannan by the steamship of which deceased was an officer. Mr. Sams was twenty seven years of age, the son of a retired cotton merchant, and con-nected with the Mills, one of the wealthiest and foremost families in the state.

REPUBLICAN PATRIOTS.

Even the independent republican papers have a streak of uncompromising partisanship running through them. Following their editorial observations somewhat carefully, we discover that the independent editors, almost without exception, indulge in the hope that the democrats may commit some blunder of legislation in order to improve the chances of the republican party in 1884; and we have no doubt that they would be pleased to see the interest of the people damaged by the democrats in order to insure the still greater damage that will follow inauguration of another republican administration.

· This attitude, we presume, is the result of patriotism, but it is patriotism of a very peculiar kind. We have no doubt that the democrats in congress will disappoint the republican patriots. They will manifest a desire and an intention to reduce the burdens of taxation which now press so heavily upon the people, and thus give evidence of a purpose to ad minister the government for the good of all classes. The only blunder the democrats can commit will be a failure to take the cue which the people have given in recent elections.

THE COTTON MARKET.

The fact that Mr. Morris Ranger cornered the cotton market in Liverpool a few years ago is calculated to afford him small satisfaction now that he is himself cornered. Speculation is no longer a fine art. It has degenerated into an every day business. Fortunately, or unfortunately, as the case may be, it is a business which cuts both ways, so that there are occasions when the expert has no particular advantage of the amateur. Particularly is this true of speculation in cotton. Mr. Ranger, it is generally conceded, is an expert in the matter of dealing in cotton futures-one of the most fascinating forms of speculation-but at this moment Mr. Ranger is enjoying one of the inevitable results of riding the speculative see saw.

Curiously enough, the moralist cannot point to the fate of Mr. Ranger as an example of the evil effects of speculation, for there may be another turn of the tide that will place Mr. Rauger once more at the head of those who are engaged in monkeying with the great southern staple. The fate of the great cotton king is little different from the fate of the south itself, which spends a large part of the mony it receives for cotton in betting that prices will The south, in this game, is the bull, and the rest of the world is the bear, and between these two a lively row is going drel. The saying is cynical-many will call it on. Somehow or other, the price of cotton is not affected by the attitude of either, and speculation seems to have little to do with the ups and downs of the figures. A buys December cotton at a certain figure, and B buys it at another figure, but neither of these transactions can be said to have any influence on the price of cotton.

The truth is, the cotton market is a very nysterious affair even to those who spend their lives in studying it. Ranger, however, was no ordinary cotton dealer. He was a freelance-a bucaneer in the trade-whose oper ations added largely to the uncertainty of the cotton business. It is aid that almost every legitimate dealer in cotton in Great Britain has been afraid of him, and this fear has frequently operated to bring about stagnation in business. But all this is over. In the picturesque language of the sixth editorial column of the New York Times, Mr. Ranger has struck the ceiling, and the concussion is liable to bring about clear weather and a better feeling.

GEORGIA'S PROSPERITY.

Governor McDaniel, in a long interview published in the New Orleans Times-Democrat, makes a good showing for the condition and prospects of Georgia. He attributes the increased enterprise on the part of the people of this state in a large measure, to the Atlanta cotton exposition. He says that the exhibits of the industries and resources of all portions of the country and the visitors from all sections who met here and discussed the pros pects of the south, gave a strong and healthy impulse toward the material development of the state. Atlanta showed the effect of the exposition quicker than the state at large, but the benefits were undoubtedly general. Emigration has decreased since the exposition. Methods of agriculture have improved; manufactures have sprung up all over the state with a rapidity never known before. The governor speaks highly of such expositions as tending to quicken the energies of the people, to improve their methods of labor, and thus to develop the resources of the country.

In answer to an inquiry as to the condition of Georgia's finances, Governor McDaniel says that the general expression is that they are steadily improving- The debt has been reduced to less than $9,500,000 by democratic government. A few years ago the state was rescued from republican misrule, with its resources impaired, its credit almost gone and ple. The state's property, it sold, would pay its debt; and according to the constitution the sinking fund for its extinction must be increased at least $100,000 annually. The rate of taxation was 5 mills in 1873 and has been reduced to 21/2 mills, at which rate it can be maintained. The governor very properly remarks that the system of returning property for taxation is defective, and says that some method should be adopted to prevent the almost universal habit of undervaluing property when it is given in for taxation. The property of the state increased over $62,000,000 last year and the governor predicts an increase of at $20,000,000 for the current least year. He thinks the population is increasing fully as fast now as it did during the past decade. The recent state elections cannot be population, because the negroes show a singular apathy in state politics, never going to the polls in force except at national elections. educational institutions in the state, but his provement in this department. He speaks confidently of the agricultural resources of the state and backs up his supposition that "no state in the union possesses a more varied climate and a more varied soil than the state of Georgia." His remarks as to the quantity and, variety of the crops and the value of lands give excellent proof that there is something more than state pride slight allusion to the common school system

suggests that he thinks there is room for im-

n such an assertion. Manufactories are succeeding admirably in Georgia, and, as a consequence, their number is fast increasing. The fifty cotton mills and the fifteen woolen mills in the state are almost without exception paying handsome return on the ten million dollars capital they represent. Georgia leads all the southern states in cotton manufactures, and ranks eighth among all the states of the union. The increase in cotton manufactories from 1870 to 1880 was nearly 100 per cent. The iron industry is rapidly increasing, and the gold deposits are receiving more systematic and scientific attention than ever before. The railroads are doing well and constantly pushing into new territory. The rapid construction since 1880 has made the total number of miles of railway in the state over 3,000, all of which are under management that maintains good conditions of road and equipment. The timber supply of the state, though great, demands are constantly being made upon it, is enormous and furnishes all the varieties of woods common to the south. The governor thinks the asylums and penitentiary of the state are in good condition. The death rate in the penitentiary is lower than in any state of the union, only 22 deaths having occurred last year among 1,500 convicts. As to immigration, it is well said by the governor that Such familiarity enables him to tell succinctly and foreibly what Georgia is and is doing. It is a showing of which every Georgian can be proud. It suggests great hopes for the future of the

He philosophically reviewed the history and tendency of democracies, and endeavored to point out what are the chief dangers of our government. With all the trickery of politics, the ignorance of the masses and other drawbacks, he believes that the people have faith in the majority and that much good may come from these fifty millions of German-English people who have gone through Puritan discipline. Mr. Arnold is tall, well formed, with an air of high breeding and refinement. He has a plain, kindly face with old fashioned mutton-chop whiskers, keen grey eyes, and a flexible mouth.

THE prisoner O'Donnell, who killed Carey, the nformer, is to be tried this month before the central criminal court in Lendon. The charge of the recorder to the grand jury bore heavily against the prisoner, and of course a true bill followed. O'Donnell's only chance lies in the direction of proof of a quarrel just before the shoot ing occurred. He claims to have killed Carey in self-defense after they had had a serious quarrel. There will be a dispute as to what the prisone said to Mrs. Carey immediately after the fatal shots. THE Russian railways have not kept step with the railways of other European countries. The trains are slow, although the country is generally at. The salaries of railway officials are low. The carriages, however, are illy kept and the motion not much better than that of a good road wagon. Fortunately for travellers, the refreshment arrangements are good-a fact much valued because the railroads rarely touch the towns. They were built to connect large cities, running straight as an ar row without reference to the smaller towns. They vere built too, with a view to transportation in ease of war. The service lacks many essential featires, and what is worse, it has gained little in the forty-eight years that have elapsed since the first line was opened.

About twenty-eight per cent of the cases are settled by actual trials, forty two per cent on judgment by default and thirty per cent on compre mise. The number of failures is each year about 5,000, and bankruptcy proceedings are rather slow They do, however, generally end in a dividend.

HORATIO SEYMOUR'S remark that a sick man of experience would make as good a president as ther is any need for, can hardly apply to Mr. Tilden. At last accounts Mr. Tilden's health was greatly superior to the health of the country under a republican administration. Nevertheless, we humbly thank Mr. Seymour for the suggestion. It is of Tur democrats of Minnesota are making it rather lively for the republicaus. The state campaign ha been rather apathetic, but now the republicans have opened their eyes to the fact that the demo crats have been on a still hunt after the Scandinavian vote. Bierman, the democratic governor, is a German Norwegian, and the canvass that has been going on has resulted in a stampede of the Scandinavian vote from the republican camp. The republicans claim that in a case of this kind, the science of the politician is unavailing, and they can only sit with folded hands and watch results. The probability is that Hubbard. the republican candidate, will be defeated.

I have never had fifty thousand dollars in my life. The facts are as fol lows, which I published eight years ago: I kept what money I could save at the First National bank. William S. Huntington was cashier, and my friend. He often made investments for me, and got me interest for my money. I trusted him implicit-

I put the money in the bank and left the city for a few days, and on my return found Huntington dead. I called at the bank to look after my money and was informed it was in the hands of Kilbourn and Latts, real estate agents, who had purchased some property for me, I called on that firm and was informed that they had purchased some property for me and they would give me my papers in a few days. I never did get any titles. Some time after this I saw an article in a New York paper concerning the real estate pool. I went to Kilbourn and Latta and told them I desired to get my money out of that transaction. A NEW CONSTITUTION NEEDED.

m the Macon Telegraph and Messenger. After a trial of six years, during which time a thorough test has been made of the work of our last constitutional convention, the conviction that it is in many important respects inadequate and unsound, has forced itself upon the state generally. This much we gather from experience, observation and from the lips of representative men, who have from time to time been placed in positions to note the workings of certain clauses. We have vet to meet an intelligent and competent judge of laws who is prepared to indorse and accept the laws of his convention as satisfactory. The opinion is rapidly gaining ground that our present constitution is a shackle upon the state, should be modified in some parts and strengthened in others. There are provisions in it which should be absolutely obiit-

The grand jury of this country, in their presentments published this moreing, sound the call for another convention and recommend a charge in our penal statues which, in our opinion, is timely, viz: The establishment of the whipping pest for persons guilty of certain petry offenses involving moral turpitude, in o.der to relieve the courts of the annoyance of trials for such, and the country of the great expense incurred. There are hundreds of these petry criminals bounds before the courts of these petry criminals bounds before the court.

in these petty criminals of ought before the grand juries and the cours, annually. It may be sufely stated that not fifty per cont of the real criminals are punished. If conviction be had the cost and fine fall as frequently upon the tax payers as upon the culprit. A law that would summarily lay the issue upon the guilty party would cheek the marked tendency towards petty crimes and leave our main courts free to handle the county business.

MUSIC AND ART.

The Entertainment at the Library Hall Last Night-Director H. C. Peeples had charge of the Library

There was a steady patronage of the from 11 to 3, and the excellent 25-cent lunches served during the same hours, are appreciated only when they have been tried. They are indeed excellent. Mrs Ona C. Frank one of Atlanta's chief favorites, sang "The Villege Bell" with artistic excellence. Her voice is of excellent quality and she has trained it with patient care. To-night there will be a spelling match between twelve gtrischosen from the high school and twelve boys from Professor Means' school. The girls defeated the boys of the high school in the former contest, and the result of this one is looked to with much interest. After the spelling match there will be an impromptu dance for the little folks. On Monday Director Haiman will have charge; and a fine display of decorated china will be spread out in the upper hall. It will consist of new pieces that have never been exhibited in the city. The rare collection of Mr. William Lycett will alone be worth to see more than admission fee and it will be reinforced by collections equally fine. We have no hesitation in saying that the entire show will be something that no one will care to miss. The collection will be ready Monday afternoon at one o'clock, and ladies who cannot come in the evening should come in the afternoon.

Mr. Hoke Smith followed Judge Hillyer, and said all that could have been said in the case. He caimed that the stient had done the deed in self defense, and that the evidence clearly demonstrated that fact. Mr. Smith's speech was evaluent and to the point. In it he fully sustained the reputation he has made for close and complete argument. Solicitor General Hill closed the argument. He was upon his feet for two hours, and during that time held the attention of the audience closely. At three o'clock Judge Hammond began delivering his charge. It was clear and was intelligible to all who heard it. He defined the law plainly, and informed the Jury that in weighing who heard it. His charge was as im; artial as it could have been, and was received by the defense with every indication of satis action. At ten minutes to four o'clock the judge completed his charge and the jury retired. The court had been in session continuously from eight o'clock and soon after the jury retired the court took a recess. At five o'clock the jury had made no verdiet and the courthouse gas was lighted. At six suppers were sent into the jury and while they were eating a small crowd remain d in the courtroon to be on hand when the verdiet was rendered. Barrett's mother and brothers remained with him. After the jury had been out several hours, however, he began to exhibit signs of nervousness and would start at the slightest sound. His face was exceedingly pale and every movement showed his great anxiety.

The jury at 10 o'clock announced their inability to arrive at a verdict, and in a few minutes they were transferred to the Caunon house where they remained during the night.

the audience was evidently disappointed and at the close of the performance the general verdict was that the play and the players could be improved on very considerably. The play is dull at the opening where it makes a feeble effort to picture the "woes of Ireland."

After the first act the tenants are all ousted to no one knows exactly where and from that time on to the close of the play the characters are taken up in looking after a very charming Irish girl, "Morna" who is married to a landlord, who tires soon of her, and prepares to send her to a private asylum, but she escapes and gets back to her home, and ends the play by turning out to be an heiress. ### THE DRYEST DAY.

The soil within the field was not and dry.
The corn had long for water cried in vain;
With wistful gaze I watched the cloudless sky.
When all at once the south wind seemed to sigh,
"The dryest day is just before the rain."

With hope deferred my heart had weary grown, But when I heard that soothing, sweet refrain, Methought therefrom a ray of comfort shown As on the breeze these words came gently blown. "The dryest day is just before the rain."

Then to a thirsty little flower I said,
"Cheer up, sweet bloom, and try to smile again,
A better day draws near, hope is not dead:
Make one more eff rt. lift thy drooping head,
The dryest day is just before the rain."

Oh! ye to whom misfortune grief imparts,
Despair not yet nor feetfully complain:
But bravely check the rising tear that starts,
And let this thought revive your drooping hearts,
"The dryest day is just before the rain."

J. R. Ogden, general freight agent of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia: Ray Kuight, of the same road; T. S. Davant, of the Memphis and Charleston; H. The Barnwell Railroad, COLUMBIA, October 31.—The railroad commissioners this morning received from Messrs. Brawley & Barnwell, counsel for the South Carolina railway a letter asking that the application to the Barnwell railway of rule 3 of the standard tariff be suspended until the question could be fully discussed. ed until the question could be fully discussed.

Rule 3 is that under which the South Carolina and Barnwell railways are considered one line.
It reads as follows: "In the application of the standard freight tariff for purposes of transportation, main lines, branches and connecting railroads, when operated and controlled by one company, shall be regarded as parts of one road and the rates shall be computed as upon parts of one and the same road."

After considering the constitution of the same road."

rates shall be computed as upon parts of one and the same road."

After considering this letter and the arplication of the Baruwell committee the commissioners dispatched the following telegram to Colonel John B. Peck, general manager of the South Carolina and Barnwell railways: "on application of the citizens of Barnwell, and pending the consideration of communication from attorneys of the South Carolina railway, the application of rule 3 to Barnwell railway is suspended. Continue old rates until further notice."

The effect of this is to restore the rates used by the Barnwell railway before the enforcement of the commission's standard tariff, and to consider for the present, the two roads as separate and independent. This action the commission has felt warranted in taking rather than that the people of Barnwell should be deprived of their railroad facilities. The authorities of the South Carolina railway had only two or three day's experience of the effect of the standard tariff on the Barnwell railway before they announced that the road would stop businesa. Their fears of continued loss on that line were, therefore entitlely hypothetical. The Barnwell railway might, however, lose some money yearly and yet prove a profitable investment to the South Carolina railway, for, it taps an important section of country herefore shipping much freight over the Port Royal railroad, and as a "feeder" to the South Carolina railway it must abundantly pay for itself in giving increased freights to that line.

No state in the union can make such a show in Coal is found everywhere in the state almost and the beauty of it is that the deposits are very easily accessible by both rail and boat. They are not, as in most coal regions, in a mountainous, rugged country, but lie on rolling plains, through which a railroad can and has been built with ease and very little expense. Pennsylvania has derived enormous wealth from her coal fields. She owes her present prominence to her coal and iron industries. Alabama has the same future before her, for her mineral deposits cannot be estimated in value. There seems to be an inexhaustile rupply, and capitalists have already found it out, for notwithstanding the number of mines which have been opened up lately, there are innumerable capitalists who are rushing in who ca not be supplied, so very great is the demand.

railroad builders of the country. Major Gordon

We got some of Swift's Specific and gave it to this case, and in a short time it was cured sound and weil. It was as bad a case, I think, as I ever saw, and had been under excellent physiciaes with no permanent benefit. We have been civing it to all the children as a nealth tonic. We have four children and one seamstress who, for years, bave suffered intensely every spring with crysipelas, and though they had been taking Swift's specific only in small doses as a health tonic, they all, without exception, passed through this spring without a touch of the complaint.

A young lady of the institution, who has been with us for years, has been troubled with a most aggravated rash ever since she was a child. She tried all the known remedies that are prescribed for it with no benefit; but she has been cured by taking Swift's Specific, and has had no return of the trouble.

It is such an excellent tonic, and keeps the blood so pure, that the system is less liable to contract discase. All of the teachers and children who are old enough to know agree with me in believing it is the greatest medicine known. My faith in it is unbounded, and I and my assistants take great pleasure in recommending it to every one. I can stall times be found at the Home and will take pleasure in seeing or corresponding with any who is interested in the remedy.

A FEMALE HIGHFLYER.

A Nashville Detective in Telegraphic Correspondence With Chief Connolly.

Chief Connolly yesterday received a telegram from a Nashville detective asking for the arrest of a woman who was supposed to be en route to Atlanta. The telegram contained a fine description of the festive female who has been swindling the good people of Nashville, and authorized Chief Connolly to notify the first-less battles of this ple of Nashville, and authorized Chief Con-nolly to notify the first-class hotels of this city and the leading jewelry houses of the presence of a fraud, if he did not succeed in arresting her. Chief Connolly had cause to believe that the woman would reach Atlanta by the $:40 train on the Western and Atlan-tic road last night, but a care-ful search of that train failed to bring to light the woman. From a gentleman who came in from Nashville on the train it was learned that the woman was badly wanted in that city. She is a woman of fine appearance learned that the woman was badly wanted in that city. She is a woman of fine appearance and is dealing in fine rings. AN AGRICULTURAL TALK.

Commissioner Henderson K. turns from South Caroli na-The Frost of Yesterday. Hon. J. T. Henderson, commissioner of agriculture, returned on yesterday from a trip to Charleston, where he has been on business

"Did you see the new cotton picking machine?" asked a Constitution man of the commissioner.

"No; I did not see the machine, but I saw a bale of cotton that was picked by it. It brought the full market price of hand-picked cotton, and seemed to be clean and nice."
"Was the fiber injured?"

"Not at all.

"Not at all."
"Do you think it will be a success?"
"I have always had my doubt about a cotton picking machine being made a success. The cotton men of Charleston, however, are sanguine and confidently believe that a machine will prove to be all that is claimed for it." A PROST YESTERDAY MORNING.

When near the East Tennessee road he was met by two strange negro men, who passed him, but immediately after passing one of the darkies wheeled around and struck Mr. Morgan on the back of the head, knocking him down. They then proceeded to go through his pockets, but before they had completed the task a man named Dempsey happened along frightened them away. A Moun ain Plak.

Mr. Frank Small, business agent of the dramatic romance of the moonshiners of the above nam, is in the city making arrangements for its production at DeGive's opers house on the 9th. The Chicago Times thus speaks of the play: "After a bree-weeks' run of the play this journal said: 'It maybe-set down as a drama containing a great deal of promise.

The plot of the story upon which the play is built is one of considerable interest, devised with much evidence of the gift of the romancer, and its dramatic construction shows uncommon skill in that direction also.

Miss Slyvester, always a favorite here, has added to the favor in which she has been held by a really strong interpretation of the leading part.'

From Peck's Sun.

Nobles, the jolly dramatic Bohemian, has come and gone again, leaving our sides sore and our vest buttons scattered all around. Nobles is the prince of langh makers and the laughter he evokes is of the clean, wholesome kind. The kind of fun we always want our wives and sweethearts (or some other fellow's wife or sweetheart) to enjoy with us. We smile instinctively when the copy comes in for Nobles's ad. The bare meation of his name conjures up the persecuted maiden suspended in space, and the awful "villain" with his body full of bullets who "still pursued her," and the irrepressible quill driver, cheeky, brainy, in aginative who can lie, love and fight to get a ready liem, carries us back to our own, youth again, ere we had grown baid headed in the har-uss and round shouldered from toting sround our government bonds. Nobles is one of us, in spirit if not in fact. From Peck's Sun.

THE BEST AND MOST DURABLE PIANOS IN THE MARKET.

From GUSTAVE SATTER, the renowned Pianist and Composer, Honorary Member Royal Academy of Sweden, New York Philharmonic, etc. NEW YORK, December 8th, 1876.

Messes. Kranick & Bach.
Gentlemen:—After having severely tested your instruments, and especially your Grand Planos, I have come to the conclusion that I consider your planos the only ones in America whose mechanism is adequate to the one introduced by the world renowned house of Erard, in Paris, and which has been promounced the "Ne Plus Ultra" of pliability and elegance by the first planist in Europe during the last fifty years. I sincerely wish that you will continue the manufacture of your excellent instruments on the same principle, as it is the only valuable one for true artists and concert performance.

Truly yours, GUSTAVE SATTER.

If you have got such flour as you say you have, get it made into rolls, biscuits and light bread, and send it to

We will do the same. We will then appoint a committee of ladies who shall say which flour is

THE GREAT CROUP REMEDY

CHENEY'S EXPECTORANT

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

From C. D. McCurry. Newton county, Ga.—I take great pleasure in recommending to the public Dr. Cheney's Expectorant and Croup Preventive. My little son had been a great sufferer from Spasmodic Croup, during the night. Dr. Cheney about two ago, prescribed for him his Croug Preventive: which has most miraculously cured him. I find it equally beneficial in all cases of Coughs. I consider it a blessing in any family. Every one should keep it in their houses.

From Roykin R. SMTH, Jasper county, Ga.—I wish to say to you and the public, that I have been using your Expectorant and Croup Syrup for a number of years, and can truly say that it is the best preparation for Couchs that I ever saw or tested. I had the Epizootic the past winter, and I took four doses of your Expectorant and that much cured me, I cannot get along well without t; is indeed an indispensible in my family. No one hould be without an agent so povent.
